

MEET MS. AMERICA 2007-08

Jane Park Smith - Ms. America 2007-08

Jane Park Smith, Ms. America ® 2007-08 believes every gift and talent is created within each person for the purpose of serving and uplifting others. Formerly an internationally recognized TV news reporter for CNN, Jane has parlayed that experience into a dynamic career as an accomplished actress, model, speaker, and entertainer. She says, “Live Fully, Love Wholly...No Limits!”

Her developing entertainment career parallels and fuels her drive to nurture the desires in the hearts of others and birth them into greater possibilities! Jane’s modeling work is seen worldwide in hundreds of print ads for companies including Tupperware, The Ritz Carlton, Marriott Hotels, and on magazine covers, including Martial Arts World and Create. She has acted in over 10 films and in May 2008 finished filming the movie “Street Warrior” where she plays the lead role of Ms. Lee who is an antagonist who later grows a conscience. The film is produced by Jim Wilberger and Erik Heiberg and will air on Spike TV and also be shown internationally. Her numerous national commercials include Farmers Insurance and Bud Light.

As Ms. America ® 2007-08 and former Miss Asian America ®, this happy UCLA Bruin alumni volunteers countless hours for a broad spectrum of causes. Her heart’s greatest desire, however, is to serve and speak out for the voiceless and oppressed worldwide. She deeply enjoyed serving as a spokesperson and activist for The Katrina Family Relocation Project and is currently raising support for Kenyan orphans as Global Volunteer Network’s official Ambassador. She is committed to using her God-given talents as actors and event producer, to nurture and empower those in need. As a part of the U.S. Entertainment Force’s, The F.A.I.T.H. Brigade, Jane looks forward to wholeheartedly serving American military families with passion and national pride.
